Research participants: 14 x 17-18yr old young men who are studying video game design.

Location: Wick High School, Scotland. The research was conducted over Skype, via the screen share function.

Duration: 25 mins

I outlined the basic Delfee concept and then took the young people through each of the screens shots in the lo-fi prototype, trying to avoid any leading, assumptive preconceptions about the content, style or functionality. This was done in order to attempt to create a comfortable, open situation where the young people felt able to comment freely.

Delfee concept outline:

Delfee is an online aggregator of the best employment support initiatives from around the world. It allows users to take part in a simple and fun quiz that helps to explore behavioural traits, personal professional preferences, soft/hard skills assessment and current circumstances with a view to suggesting the best type of employment support – right on your door step. The employment support initiatives could take the form of MOOC's (Massive Open Online Courses) Apprenticeships, career specific support groups and actual employment opportunities.

I was able to gain the following feedback,

Who would use this service?
Young people in school, university students, school leavers.

What services exist already?
My Word Of Work http://www.myworldofwork.co.uk/

Would you use it?  Emphatic yes!
Why?  "It would really help me if I was undecided in what I wanted to do as a career. I really liked how it not only gave you career choices but also linked you up with potential employers in your area."

What did you like about it?
I liked the map of employment opportunities
Very clean & modern design
Not over-complicated.
Really liked the slider to answer the questions.

Any other comments
Does it show you the qualifications required for any opportunities it suggests?
Does it show college courses as well as job opportunities?
Is the FB link a requirement? I don't like linking apps to my FB
Can you still unlock more quizzes without social media integration?

Prototype refinements and assumptions to test:

- Social media integration is not a prerequisite for doing the quiz.
- Qualifications required for any job opportunity are listed.
- College/University courses to be listed as well as MOOC's (Massive Open Online Courses) Apprenticeships, career specific support groups and actual employment opportunities.

http://marcom.good.co/corporate/ I borrowed screen shots of the questions and archetype imagery.

https://raiseyourflag.com/ I used the wonderful UI design and layout from the job profile page on Ryan's awesome digital platform.

http://keynotopia.com/ I used Apple Keynote and some Keynotopia web browser templates to create the lo-fi prototype.

http://www.catch-22.org.uk/ I borrowed the geographical location images from Catch 22.
