

Name: Bunmi Ogunjobi

Age: 26

Profession: Operates a mini stall selling provision in her village

Background info: Bunmi currently has two children and ever since her husband had a car accident a few years ago she has been the breadwinner of the family. Having to provide for the family on a day to day basis puts a lot of pressure on her. Ever since the birth of first baby she has been meaning to go to the nearest vaccination center in another village which is about 2 hours away from her. However since she can't afford to close her shop for just a day she is finding it hard to find the time to go to the nearest vaccination center.

Name: Aisha Adamu

Age: 32

Profession: Sells yoghurt by the road side

Background info: Aisha currently has 2 children and none of them have been vaccinated. The reason being that a local religious leader has been telling her not to get her children vaccinated because it contains prohibited items like gelatin which is derived from pork based products. She however believes that vaccinations are safe but is unwilling to speak out on her own .
